To the Christian Reader.

AMongst all the armies of the creatures which were originally made by God, Men and Angels were incomparably the moſt excellent; Angels, alwayes beholding the face of God in heaven, and men next unto God, having dominion over every living thing under heaven. One of the nobleſt faculties of theſe preheminenced creaturs, is, their underſtanding; one of their higheſt endowments, is, their wiſdom; they being thereby made conformable to the image of their Creator as man, alſo is, herein, made like unto the Angels of light. The woman of Tekoah, ſent in Ioabs errand unto David, gives teſtimonie unto this truth: My Lord (ſaith ſhee) is wiſe, according to the wiſdome of an Angel of God, to know all things that are in the earth, to diſcerne good and bad: implying, that wiſdome is an Angelicall excellency, and that man endued therewith, is as an Angel of God. Yea but our firſt parents continued not in this honourable condition wherein they were created, but fell and drew all their poſterity after them: ſo as every child of Adam may now take up the words of Agur, Prov.30.2. Surely I am more brutiſh then man, and have not the underſtanding of a man; namely that underſtanding which was in man before he thus became brutiſh, and conſequently, which, in duty, ought ſtill to have continued in him. Gods image being thus defaced in us; that now ſhould be our chiefe inquirie, how it may be repaired againe. And the principall means which God hath ordained and ſanctified hereunto, is the word of God held out unto us in the holy Scriptures of the old and new Teſtament. Hence that word of God is called a Lamp, and a light, Pſal.119.105. A light ſhining in a dark place, 2 Pet.1.19. The word of wiſdome, and the word of knowledge, 1 Cor.12.8. Becauſe it diſpelleth the darke ſhadowes of ignorance and errour, and illuminateth the mind with ſpirituall wiſdome and inſtruction. Without this light, without this word of knowledge, there is no diſcovery made of the way which leadeth to life and glory. Amongſt the Ancients, Chryſoſtome likens the holy ſcripture, to a treaſury, to a fountaine, to an Apothecaries ſhop: Ierome, to a table richly furniſhed with variety of delicates: Ephrem, to an armorie: Baſil, to a looking glaſſe: Chryſoſtō againe, to a pleaſant garden: and Caſſian, to a fruitfull field. But to what purpoſe ſerveth a treaſury, if wee make no uſe of it? Or a fountaine, if we draw no water thence? Or an Apothecaries ſhop, if we fetch no medicine thence? Or a table furniſhed with varieties, if we taſte not of them? Or an armory, if we take no weapons thence? Or a looking glaſſe, if we behold not our faces therein? Or a pleaſant garden, if we gather no flowers or herbes therein? Or a fruitfull field, if we reape no fruit therein? Surely to no purpoſe at all. That we may then make uſe of this treaſury, draw water from this living fountaine, take medicinall confections from this Apothecaries ſhop, taſte and eate of this well-furniſhed table, weapon our ſelves from this armorie, behold our faces in this glaſſe, gather fragrant flowers in this garden, and fruit from this fertile field; Let us be diligent in peruſing the ſacred writings of the Prophets and Apoſtles, let us write them in the table of our hearts : Yea, let us teach them diligently unto our children, talke of them when we ſit in our houſe, and when we walke by the way, when we lye downe, and when we riſe up, Deut.6.6.7. And as it was of old ordained for the Kings of Iſrael, that they ſhould write them a copie of the law, and ſhould read therein all the dayes of their life, that they might learne to feare the Lord their God, &c. Deut.17.18.19. So, ſet we before us the whole book of God, that we alſo may feare him and yeeld him obedience. It is the ſaying of Bernard. Cũ oramus, cum Deo loquimur: cũ legimus, Deus nobiſcum loquitur: Si vis cum Deo ſemper eſſe, ſemper ora, & ſemper lege. When we pray, wee ſpeak with God: when wee read, God ſpeaketh with us: If thou wilt alwaies be with God, then alwaies pray, and alwaies read.

Theodoſius the Emperour, and Alfred King of England, are renouned in Hiſtory, for their aſſiduitie in reading of the ſcriptures: and concerning Alphonſus King of Aragon, it is recorded, that he did fourteen times read over the old and new Teſtament, with commentaries upon the ſame. It is an excerciſe well beſeeming the higheſt, as well as the loweſt, to be well verſed in the book of the high God; this alone (a prerogative above all other writings) being able to make a man wiſe unto ſalvation, 2 Tim. 4.15. That we may read theſe ſacred Oracles the more pertinently and profitably, the induſtrious labours of this reverend and zealous ſervant of the Lord will contribute unto us no ſmall aſſiſtance. True it is, that the work is primarily and principally uſefull for ſuch as have devoted their ſtudies unto the office of the Miniſtery, for whoſe benefit it was more eſpecially intended: howbeit all others likewiſe who deſire to take aquaintance, in a more familiar manner with the Phraſe and ſenſe of Scripture, may reape hereby no ſmall advantage. Touching the ſeverall heads contained and handled in this worke, I purpoſely forbeare to ſay any thing: The Authour himſelf, who beſt knew how to expreſſe his own intentions, hath punctually, by way of preface, given information herein to the reader. Concerning the Author, this is the ſummary of what I have to ſay. I had, for the ſpace of ſundry yeares laſt paſt, ſome intimate acquaintance with him, during which time, as (by the Teſtimonie of many godly learned) long before, he hath conſtantly been very laborious in the publick exerciſe of his Miniſtery, the fruit wherof was ſealed by the converſion of many ſouls unto God. Thoſe his labours, in the miniſtery, were not only beſtowed in his own congregation, but in ſeverall Market townes next adjacent, where weekly Lectures were for many yeares continued, by the free and voluntary coaſſiſtance of diverſe godly and Orthodox Divines, untill they were by the laſt Biſhop of that dioceſe, to the great prejudice of many ſoules, imperiouſly ſuppreſſed. In that his Miniſteriall worke, he was as a leader and patterne unto many, exemplifying in his Sermons that method for Preaching, which many years ſince, in his Faithfull Shepheard, he had preſcribed, or at leaſt propoſed in writing. Diverſe painfull and profitable labourers in the Lords Vineyard had their firſt initiation and direction from and under him: unto whõ alſo many others had recourſe, and from whom they borrowed no ſmall light and incouragement. His people by his his constant paines in Catechising ( wherein he had an excellent facility) aswell as in preaching, were more then ordinary proficients in the know-ledge of the things of God, and the Youth of his Congregation very ready in giving understandingly an account of their faith, whereof himself would often speake with much rejoycing. And that the knowledge of his people was not meerely speculative, appeared by the many liberall contributions, which for pious and charitable uses, were made by them, wherin I suppose, ratâ proportione, they were not inferiour to any congregation in that whole County wherein he lived. His preaching and catechising were accompanied with zeale, frequencie, and fervencie in prayer, wherein he was very ready &powerfull, & whereby all his other labours became the more succesfull. With all these, his ordinarie and more private conversation held good correspondence, he being bold, apert, and candid in admonishing or reproving, as occasion was presented, tender also and cordiall in comforting the afflicted or wounded spirit, and in a word, he shewed much integrity in all his actions. He was in his private studies (according to that strong constitution of body wherwith God had blessed him) indefatigable; the benefit whereof the Church of God enjoyeth, in those many tractats written and printed by him, as most men versed in, Theologicall studies will give testimonie. Amongst those many writings, which he hath published for the benefit of Gods Church, he never spent like pains in any, as in this, wherein both his life and labours had their last period. For this was (as himself often confessed) horis successivis the fruit of many years study. Yet, in a work of this nature, great exactnesse cannot be at once expected: seeing much of the Authours time and strength, was necessarily taken up in other studies, as is before mentioned, and this alone requires at least an whole man, and his whole time, though crowned with gray haires, before he see corruption. Besides, in this writing of his, disposed in such a method, he hath first broken the yce, and troden out a path wherin others may follow with far greater facility then he hath gone before them, it being, difficilius invenire, quam inventis addere, more difficult to begin a worke, then afterward to carry it on toward perfection. If, in interpreting scripture phrases we find him sometimes dissenting from the more received and common sense of Expositours, we shall the more readily vouchsafe pardon, if we consider what diversity, at least, if not contrariety of opinions, there is some times found, even amongst those who are accounted most Orthodox Interpreters: Yea, we our selves oftentimes drink of the rivulet, forsaking the common streame, wherewith most of the learned are satisfied. We would have others moderate in censuring us: goe, and doe wee likewise. Hanc veniam petimusque damusque vicissim. If yet some shall be found unsatiffied by what the authour ( desiring sincerely to promote the publick good) hath spent his pretious time and strength in; such may ( for conclusion) conceive, that if God had drawn out unto a further length the years of our deceased brother, he might possibly by an after-review have brought this first draught to greater perfection. Praying God to make succesfull these last endeavours of his faithfull servant, I remaine

TO THE READER STUDIous of the holy Scriptures.

Well disposed Reader,

I Present unto thee here a work of three parts, for thy use and benefit in reading the booke of God.

In the first and greatest part, called Thesaurus Biblicus, are all the common words in the Bible, not by way of Concordance, for that is performed by Cotton, and compleatly by a Minister, one Master Newman.

But this my labour teacheth, how to make various uses of a Concordance, more then to help memory to find out a word, the common and almost onely use made of a Concordance heretofore.

In this first part, note what order is observed in setting downe the words.

I. In the words I follow our last English Translation, and set them downe Alphabetically throughout, for the more easie & speedie finding out of every word.

II. Then followes the diverse translation of the same word in Latine, if the word admit it, which some will not, as when an Hebrew, or Greek word is kept, as Abba, Anathema, or such like: This various translation is not here of the same word, in the same verse; for that is done by one in three distinct volumes: the title of the Book is Sacra Biblia variarum translationum; but of the same word out of many places of Scripture, as the same is translated by the vulgar edition, Montanus, Junius, Tremelius, Pagnine, Vatablus, Beza, Erasmus, or as it is in the Septuagint, Chaldee paraphrase, and Syriack translations, in Latine.

The use hereof is to discerne the force of the word in the Originals, so variously expressed by the Learned Translatours, then of them all to make, as it were, a Comment of the word, and to lay open the same so, as it may afford matter of meditation for more full instruction.

III. The word is also in our English (very often,) in other words laid open. The use whereof, is, more to give us understanding of that which is the nature of the word intended.

IV. To a Substantive are added Epitheta, for help to make distinctions; also Synonyma's, or affinia; likewise wordes somewhat near in sense, though differing much in sound, are added; Serving for enlargment of the thing, and the matter to be handled: As also the severall kinds, and sorts, which the nature of the word in use of Scripture will afford, are mentioned.

V. If

V. If the word be a Verbe, the same hath annexed to it various phrases serving much for amplification, as also teaching to pray and preach in Scripture phrases.

VI. Herewith also are set downe the Concomitants, which are other words often mentioned therewith: to discover better the nature of the thing conteined in the word, the Person, or act spoken of.

VII. Also here is shewed how the word is used by way of application, of whom, or of what it's meant, and to whom or to what it may be applyed. This tendeth much to the well understanding of the right use of the word.

VIII. Followes the various acception of the word, and the manifold sence of it, very usefull to bring us to understand and interpret a text that we mistake not, if the circumstances and the whole context be seriously considered of; by which may be knowne, which acception of the word is most apt for the place.

IX. Are added the contraries, for more cleare illustration.

Note here, that albeit these and very many other particulars are observed; yet not all under every word, for every word will not afford them: but under so many as will, you have them, though in some more at large, than in other some: And where this order cannot be kept fully, there is a supply made by adding other considerable and profitable matter for a Divine in the use of the Ministery, as, in the reading, may easily be observed.

Besides all these, there is great variety of matter to be found.

1. All the Scriptures speaking of God, of his name, his nature, of his works, of his goodnesse to his people, See the word God.

2. Here are all the Lawes of God, and how many wayes men sinne morally, Ceremonially, and Evangelically: See sinne.

3. All the particular sorts of Offenders against Christ, to the number of 26: See Sinne.

4. All the threatnings against any, with the fulfilling thereof, See Accomplish.

5. All the sorts of punishments corporall and spirituall inflicted for sinne, See Punishment and wrath.

6. All the Curses by whom and against whom pronounced: See to Curse.

7. All the Diseases mentioned in Scripture and Christs cures, See Disease and cure.

8. All the places speaking of Christ, and of his Titles, and so of his Church, set downe in an Alphabeticall order, See Christ and Church.

9. All the wonders, miracles, and strange acts. See miracles, and wonders, and cure.

10. All the predictions and promises, with the fulfilling of them. See Accomplishment.

11. All the works of the Divel, and whereto he tempteth, his names, power and dignities mentioned in scripture, See Divell.

12. All the questions propounded, and by whom, with the severall kinds, either in the old or new Testament, See Question.

13. All the holy Prayers made, and by whom, and what kind of prayers, See Prayer.

14. All

14. All the Epiſtles and Letters written, by whom, and to whom: See Letters and Epiſtles.
15. All the Allegories made, and by whom: See Allegory.
16. All Chriſts Parables: See Parables.
17. All the Similies throughout the Bible, collected and ſet downe after the Letters of the Alphabet; See Similie.
18. All the famous men and women for Religion named in Scripture: See Religion.
19. All the examples of vertue and vices: See them under the names of vertues and vices.
20. All the commendable Qualities of the wicked, and how farre they have gone in things praiſe worthy: See Quality.
21. All the Queenes mentioned, See Queene.
22. All the ancient and Aged perſons, See Aged.
23. All the remarkable for Beauty, men or women. See Beautifull.
24. All the titles of honour and dignities whereunto any have been called: See Dignity.
25. All the ſpeciall Favourites to Kings and great men. See Favourite.
26. All ſorts of callings, dignities, offices, profeſſions, trades, arts, and occupations, Alphabetically ſet downe. See Calling and Art.
27. All the cuſtomes uſed in Iſrael, in mariages, and in many other things. See Cuſtome.
28. All the Armies in and out of the Church. See Armie.
29. All the valiant for warre. See Valiant.
30. All the wiſe of note, men and women. See Wiſe.
31. All the beaſts named in ſcripture, and ſet downe alphabetically. See beaſt.

It were tedious to ſet downe the manifold particulars which come under every word, of which there be hundreds, as for inſtance in a few. If a man would know what are all the things which are abhomination to God, See them under abhomination; what things are acceptable to God. See under acceptable. what men admire at. See admire. what men doe worſhip, and how many wayes, See adore. who have been puniſhed for Idolatrie; See Adultery ſpirituall; who are accounted with God for fooles, See under Foole. If one deſire to know any word in a text; how to underſtand it, how it may be diſtinguiſhed, what ſorts and kinds there be of it, what examples of it, looke the word, and under the ſame ſhall he find helps in theſe, if the word will afford them. Moreover beſides all theſe, here be many phraſes interpreted, of which ſee inſtances under the word myſtery, baptiſed, dye, man, maſter, mouth, enemie, walke, and ſo under ſome other words. By theſe maiſt thou, Reader, underſtand in part, what uſe to mak of this Theſaurus Biblicus, but much more when thou art throughly acquainted with the whole, to be able to apply the word to thy text, or to a doctrine drawne out of thy text, ſo be it, that the words of the Doctrine be framed of ſuch words, as are words in the ſcripture. This indeed is one of the principall uſes of this book, in which I ſhould here more fully explaine my ſelf; but that ſome who would not licence this book heretofore, ſaid, this were to make every man a preacher: and another, that it would marre their trade. Theſe are enemies to knowledge, and have not the ſpirit of Moſes, to wiſh that all the Lords people could prophecie.

The

The ſecond part is the various readings of that which is in the margent from that which is in the text.

1. Here the words in the text varied in the margent, are ſet downe alphabetically, to lead more eaſily to the textuall word, and ſo to come to the Marginall.
2. The textuall word (to prevent needleſſe repetitions of one and the ſame word) is not ſo often repeated, as the ſame is varied in the margent, but all the various readings in the margent are brought unto one textuall word in one place together.
3. Here be very many words in the text interpreted by other words of the text, either in the ſame place or fetched thither from ſome other ſcriptures.

The uſe of this part is very helpfull, either to give the true ſence of a word, or to enlarge the meaning thereof without miſtake, for the ſenſe muſt needes be undoubted, where the ſpirit itſelf is the interpreter: as for ſome inſtances, Firſt uſe is for giving the ſenſe.

1. From the margent, a Calker in the text, a ſtopper of Chinks in the margent, or ſtrengtheners, Ezek. 27. 9. So Canker, a Gangrene, 2 Tim. 2. 17. Babel, confuſion, Gen. 11. 9. divorcement, cutting off, Deu. 24. 1. Gariſon, a ſtanding Campe, 1 Sam. 13. 23.

2. From the very text, as firſt borne, openeth the matrix, Numb. 3. 12. Quiet habitation, a Tabernacle not to be taken downe, nor the ſtakes remooved, nor the cords broken, Iſai. 33. 20. uncomely, leſſe honour, lacking honour, 1 Cor. 12. 23. 24. uſurie, to take increaſe, Ezek, 18. 8. 13. waters, people, multitude, nation and tongues, Revel. 17. 1. 15.

Second uſe is for the inlarging of the ſence, as for inſtance: boldneſſe, in the margent is ſtrength, Eccleſ. 8. 1. and libertie, Heb. 10. 19. a babler, in the margent, maſter of the tongue, Eccleſ. 10. 11. a baſe fellow, Acts 17. 18 obtaine, in the margent earneſtly requeſted, Nehem. 13. 6. falſe accuſer, in the margent, make-bate, 2 Tim. 3. 3. Tit. 2. 3. to flatter, in the ſame text expounded to lye, the heart not to be right in them, not ſteadfaſt. Pſal. 78. 36, 37. To dye, expounded to take away the breath to returne to duſt. Pſal. 104. 29. Famine, the breaking of the whole ſtaff of bread, Pſal. 105. 16. Image expounded falſehood, vanity, worke of errour, Ier. 51. 17, 18. To tempt God, that is limite him, and provoke him, Pſal. 78. 41. 56. To walke diſorderly, is not to worke at all, to be buſi-bodies, 2 Theſſ. 3. 11.

By all theſe inſtances given it may eaſily appeare, what benefit may be made of this ſecond part, for the true interpretation of words, amplifying of the ſence thereof, if the Reader be adviſedly conſiderate, yea, this part will ſupply the want of many Bibles printed (which I wiſh were otherwiſe) without the marginall readings; ſee the loſſe of it but in one place, Rom. 6. 17. The forme of doctrine which was delivered unto you, ſo in the text, but in the margent thus, whereto yee were delivered; by conſidering theſe together, one may underſtand by the firſt what is the worke of the miniſter, and by the latter what is the worke of Gods ſpirit in the uſe of the miniſtery: The miniſter delivers the forme of doctrine to his Hearers; but Gods ſpirit delivers the Hearers over unto that which the Teacher teacheth, which is the proper worke of the Holy Ghoſt; The want of the marginall reading depriveth one of ſuch a meditation as this; it were therefore to be wiſhed, that ſuch readings

ings were printed in all Bibles, and not omitted: But if they be, ſupply is here made, and where they be printed; yet are they ſcattered in ſeverall places: but here are gathered together the various marginall readings to one and the ſame word, whereby they may be beholden together at one veiw, and made uſe of.

The third and laſt part called the abſtract, is a Summary of the moſt chiefe and principall matters in the Bible, which clearely ſhew themſelves to the Reader, the heads whereof are in the Index annexed to the end. My part in this, is onely the cauſing of it to be tranſcribed out of a litle Coppie into this large Coppy in folio, to be anſwereable to the other two parts wherewith it is to be printed. The uſe and beneſit of all which, I commend to Gods bleſsing upon thee, and every one ſtudiouſly deſireous to have more knowledge and further acquaintance whith the holy word of God,

Yet before I end, let me adde this Advertiſement.

A neceſſary Advertiſement.

In this volume are quoted thouſands of texts of Scripture; if any place (through the Scribes negligence) be either omitted, or miſquoted, then to ſupply what is wanting, and to right what is miſtaken, look into Cottons or Newmans Concordance for the word whereto thou wouldſt, adde the text wanting, or correct what is miſquoted, and following along the word in one place quoted or other thou ſhalt find the text which thou ſeekeſt for.

II. Of Christ our Lord, who before his incarnation tooke upon him a bodily shape; in which shame he was, and in him the father and the holy Ghost, when man was created, after which perhaps mans body was created, for man consisting of two parts body and soul, so was he created in body after that image and shape, in which Christ appeared, and in soule after the similitude and likenesse, for gifts and qualities, for in Gen. 1.26. both image and likenesse are mentioned; In this shape Christ appeared to Adam and Eve, and to holy men afterwards.

This title Lord is given to Christ.

I. In the old Testament, Gen. 2.7. where the Lord God is thus to be understood, the Lord who is God with the father and the Holy Ghost. Its the first title of Christ, and therefore
1. Its added to God upon the creation of man, for before its said, God said, Gen. 1.1.3.4.5. &c. but after, the Lord God. Gen. 2.7.8.9. 15. 16.18.19.21.22.
2. Satan would in his temptation not name the Lord, but the word God. Gen. 3. 1. 5. in his hatred against Christ.
3. In coming to Adam and Eve, he came in bodily appearance, for his walking is spoken of, Gen. 3.8. and the father never appeared in bodily shape, now in this shape he is ever called the Lord God, in Gen. 3.8.9.13.14.21.22.23.
4. After the fall this title was in the mouth and mind of our mother Eve, after she heard of the promise, Gen. 4.1. so her children, verse 3.26.

This title Lord is the title given to Christ, including the other two persons; and given to the father also sometimes distinctly. Gen. 19. 24. Psal. 110.1. Mat. 22.44. but most usually to Christ including the other.

This is the Lord spoken of appearing to Abraham, Gen. 12.7. and 17.1. and 18.1. to Isaac. Gen. 26. 2. 24. to Jacob as a man wrastling with him, Gen. 32.24.29. to Moses. Exod. 3.2.6.7.11. Jos. 5.13.15. to Gideon. Judg. 6.11.14.16.

Its further to be noted, that in building altars and calling upon the name of the Lord, that its said they built an altar unto the Lord, Gen. 8.20. and 12.7. offred sacrifice unto the Lord, Gen. 4.3. and called upon the Lord, Gen. 4.26. and 12.8. and 21.33. and 26.25. To shew us that they thought upon Christ, and beheld God in him, so praying, so worshipping God in their knowledge and faith in the Lord Christ. And by this apprehension we may learne in the old Testament to conceive of God the Lord, and of the Lord the everlasting God, one and the same ever in our minds; when we read the Scriptures of the old Testament for in reading the word God, Lord, and Lord God in the old Testament too many conceive only therein God without the three persons, or the father without Christ.

II. Its most frequently given to Christ in the new Testament, Mat. 7. 22. and 12.8. and 25.11. Eph. 4.1. and 6.1. 1 Thes. 1.6. 1 Cor. 12. Phil. 2.11. called the Lord of glory 1 Cor. 2. 8.

II. Unlawfull: as was the casting Of lots before Haman, Esther 3.7. and 9. 24. and of such as the Prophets speake of: casting lots for Gods people, Joel 3.3. and for Jerusalem, Obad. 11. and the honourable, Nahum 3.10.

Rare examples of love:

God to man, John 3. 16.
Christ to his friends, John 15.13.
Moses to Israel, Exod. 32.32.
Saint Paul to his Nation, Rom. 9.3.
Jonathan to David, 1 Sam. 18.1.

This is manifold:

I. Naturall, which is two-fold:

1. Approved, as

The love of our own soule, Prov. 19.8
Of my selfe, as the example of my love to my neighbour, Rom. 13.9.
Of life, and to see good dayes, Psal. 34.12. 1 Pet. 3.10.

2. Disallowed:

The love of our life before Christ, John 12.25.
Selfe love, 2 Tim. 3.2.

Now the difference of love of a mans self, and self-love, may be this: in the one love guides the man to make him love whom he ought, and as he ought; in the other, the man swayeth over his love, to make it serviceable to himselfe, and to love but as he pleaseth.

Contr.

Is to kill a mans self, as did Judah, Achitophel, Saul, Zimri, Abimelech, Razis, 2 Macch. 14. 37.42.

II. Conjugall, which is twofold:

1. Divine, betweene God and his Church, Cant. 2. Jer. 2.2. and 3.14. Ezek. 16.8. Rev. 19.7. Hos. 2.19.20.
2. Humane between man and wife, Gen. 24. 67. and 29. 20.32. Exod. 21.5. Eccles. 9.9. Ephes. 5.25.28.33 Col. 3.19. Tit. 2.4.

Examples:

III. Parentall and filiall.

Which is also naturall, Tit. 2. 4. Exod. 21.5. as Abraham did Isaac, Gen. 22. 2.
Isaac Esau, Gen. 25.28.
Rebekah Jacob, Gen. 25.28.
